

BBC

-- get the news before it even occurs!

In early March of 2007, archived BBC footage was uncovered which clearly attests to foreknowledge of the most peculiar and unprecedented incident: from 4:57pm EDT on, that is 23 minutes early, it was reported that WTC7 a.k.a. "the Salomon Brothers Building" had collapsed. You can see its silhouette in the above screenshot right next to the talking head. Not only was it reported that WTC7 had collapsed, but even why: fire and weakening from debris -- remarkable, considering the NIST owes us an explanation for the collapse up to this day. As fate would have it, shortly before the building did actually collapse right behind the unsuspecting reporter, the live feed got terminated.

Immediately following this inconvenient and delicate discovery, there ensued a massive censorship campaign of the corpus delicti on GoogleVideo and YouTube -- but the genie was out of the bottle already, and countless uploaders forced the censors' capitulation within hours -- welcome to the information age! A prompt statement of the BBC did not defuse the controversy -- au contraire: It was succinctly claimed that all of the BBC's 9/11 recordings had been lost "for reasons of cock-up, not conspiracy" and no one had told the BBC that WTC7 had collapsed. As CNN jumped the gun as well, one might assume the information was spread over the newswire. By the way: other (in)famous cock-ups: The loss of Kennedy's brain and only recently the loss of all footage of the Apollo program -- more than 700 boxes, after all. Also, George Orwell (1984, Animal Farm) worked for the BBC temporarily, might have been inspiring...

*Who controls the past, controls the future.
Who controls the present, controls the past.*

It would certainly be great to receive the lottery numbers from the BBC in this way -- but apart from that, this begs the question: What is it about WTC7? Why the effort? Cui Bono?

Hints are found in its list of tenants:

Salomon Smith Barney, therefore "Salomon Bros Building"

Department of Defense
Central Intelligence Agency

Office of Emergency Management

This secure, sheltered floor was upgraded after the 93 bombing to serve the mayor of NYC in times of crisis. Yet on 9/11, strangely it was not employed for this purpose -- for whatever else purpose is open for speculation...

Securities and Exchange Commission
US Secret Service

Through WTC7's collapse, the SEC lost thousands of vital documents pertaining to a variety of Wall Street crimes that therefore couldn't be further pursued, among them highly publicized top-class cases such as those of Enron, Worldcom and Citibank.

The DoD lost files concerning the whereabouts of 2.3 Trillion US Dollars in the Pentagon's budget, an enormous scandal in its own right. This was disclosed on the evening of 9/10 and then went straight into the memory hole.

5-2 WORLD TRADE CENTER BUILDING PERFORMANCE STUDY

This is Larry S., then owner of WTC1, 2 and 7. In PBS' 2002 documentary "America Rebuilds" he stated:

"I remember getting a call from the, er, fire department commander, telling me that they were not sure they were gonna be able to contain the fire [in WTC 7], and I said, 'We've had such terrible loss of life, maybe the smartest thing to do is pull it.' And they made that decision to pull and then we watched the building collapse."

"Pull it" is industry jargon for controlled demolition or other demolition techniques.

Afterwards controversy erupted over what Larry meant by "pull it". It was then claimed that "it" referred to the firefighters that were pulled out from the building (or the "firefighting operation"). However, here is what Dr. Shyam Sunder, head investigator of the NIST had to say in March 05:

"There was no firefighting in WTC 7."
